HENRY MISNER
AND DESCENDANTS

DESCENDANTS OF HENRY MISNER

The first Misner in America was Conrad, listed as one of 156 emigrants aboard ship "Edinburg", James Russell, master, from Rotterdam, which docked at Philadelphia September 30, 1754. (Spelling on passenger list was Conrod Meisner.)

Conrad Misner was a farmer, residing in Bucks County, Pa., on September 22, 1759, when his son, Henry Misner, was there born. In 1784 and in 1790 Conrad was, with wife, younger son and two daughters, still a resident of Pennsylvania, (Pa. State Archives, Vol. 19, pp. 516, 691; Vol. 21, p. 772; and first - 1790 - Federal Census for Pa., pp. 255, 375.) He died about 1802.

His younger son was named Jacob whose descendants use the spelling Mizner. Jacob moved West about 1850 and settled near Springfield, Illinois. His children were Henry, Garrot, Polly, Andrew, Peter, Janet and Lawrence. One of these sons was the father of Lansing B. Mizner, minister to Guatemala, but more renowned as the father of a family including sons Addison, Henry Watson and Wilson, whose exploits are portrayed by Addison Mizner in his book: "The Many Mizners."

Henry Misner, son of Conrad, enlisted for Rev. War service from Northumberland Co., Pa., on 7/1/1777 and served for 28 months. In 1787 he married Barbara Stacker, born 1/13/1773 in Germany who came to America at the age of eleven. Henry was apparently a farmer, from his own listing in the Pa. State Archives for 1783: Vol. 19, pp. 516, 691.

The first child of the union of Henry and Barbara Misner, Elizabeth, was born in Bucks Co., Pennsylvania, 9/24/1787.

An observer near a small village of western Pa., or Ohio, could have witnessed a Kentucky-bound emigrant's wagon, stopped near a stream within roadside shade, during a hot summer midday, and reported:

"The father, stalwart, rugged and with an air of resolution, after caring for the horses, was seated upon a grassy bank enjoying his pipe.

"While the babe was fast asleep, the mother, quaintly dressed, including a mobcap, had brought out the family wooden and pewter utensils and busied herself in the preparation of a meal.

"The contents of the wagon were mostly hidden from view, but near the open end could be seen a bed and a rocking chair."

A certain hickory rocker, rush seat, sturdily made and polished with use, traveled by wagon with the few prized household possessions of Henry Misner, from Pennsylvania to Kentucky, to Ohio, to Indiana, to Illinois, where in time it was bequeathed to his son deMarquis (253)* *sense of numerical designations explained later.

Upon death of (253) the chair became the property of deMarquis' daughter, Barbara (Misner) Jackson (233) from whom it descended to her daughter, Harriet (Jackson) Serene (128)*. The latter willed the chair to her cousin, Editor Millie (Conklin) Jones (37) who has presented it to her daughter, Edith (Jones) Clerx (138) in whose home in Los Angeles it is now in frequent use, and cherished as an heirloom to be owned by her son, John Albert Clerx (34-A) the 6th generation direct descendant of Henry Misner.

Henry Misner very apparently emigrated West about 1788 or 1789 for in Mercer County, Kentucky, three children were born:

Jacob	9-24-1789
deMarquis	12-23-1792
Henry S.	7-25-1795

It is of interest that the oldest son, each, of Henry and his brother, Jacob, were named for their uncles.

Henry and family later lived in Ohio and Indiana where twelve children were born:

John	4-28-1797	Sinah	10-11-1808
Lewis	5-19-1799	Ransom	5-27-1810
Elijah	2- 1-1801	Harrison	5- 7-1812
Elisha	12-14-1802	Abraham and
Christopher	12-16-1804	Isaac	3-15-1814
Cyrena	10-11-1806	Fletcher	10-12-1816

Before emigrating to Millington, Ill., he was residing in Richland Township, Rush Co., Indiana, from which location he applied for a pension 9-22-1832. His pension for Revolutionary War service was granted. Henry Misner was one of the founders of the Millington Methodist Church, 1833. His farm home was the Bagwill place, as known today, and where his son, deMarquis, later lived and built his brick house (see below). Henry lived the remainder of his life on his farm and died 9/25/1848. Together with five of their children they are buried in the Millington-Newark cemetery.°

A biographer of Henry Misner could have written: "He was the father of 16 children, 3 girls and 13 boys, 12 of whom survived. A daughter, without issue, and 3 sons, two with issue, predeceased him. He was the grandfather of 48 and the great-grandfather of 20."

*who brought it to California with other household effects, in 1885.

°His wife died 5/20/1847.

The to-the-West migration in America following the Revolution and thru the 19th Century is typified by those of the Misner family. The patriotism of the people of those days was matched only by their hardihood, persistence, industry and sense of freedom. They were individualists beyond debate; they had provincialism but practiced neighborly graciousness. These pioneers who broke virgin soil, produced their own necessities, raised large families, compromised with Indians, civilized the wilderness, cared for their aged within their households, met local social problems by personal aid to neighbors in illness and adversity, and built enduring land estates and later houses some of which stand today as excellent livable landmarks; truly, they "helped to make this a great nation."

Quite naturally the earliest generations were mostly farmers, but as generations move and pass they produced their own artisans, merchants and manufacturers, and became not only substantial farmers, but doctors, scientists, architects, engineers, lawyers, executives and legislators.

The nation's expansion years saw with these pioneers no diminution of their sense of patriotism. Drafts for men to aid in the settlement of our nation's entanglements were, with such citizens, not required.

Part of this work (on forms) is an alphabetical listing of descendants of Henry Misner, with arbitrary numerical designations to facilitate descent identity of each from Henry Misner. This is followed by an alphabetical listing of those who married descendants of Henry Misner, with arbitrary "s" (for spouse) numerical designations to facilitate references. It will be noted that there were cases of intermarriage in instances of remote relationship, viz: Jay Misner (306) married Minnie Misner (341) hence she also has an "s" listing (S-154). Each, as the numerical tabulation reflects, was a great-grandchild of Henry Misner.

To effect such a record as this work provides completely up-to-date is, of course, a practical impossibility. Even to the extent of any generation inclusion there are lamentable omissions and errors. For such the editors express regret but hope that to those who come to notice this work it may provide considerable factual information relative to descent, as well as certain interesting data of many of those included. The editors solicit corrective and supplementary data and anecdotalage which will be acknowledged for use in a later edition. The editors will also gratefully receive any photographs (particularly of the earlier generations, their residences, etc.) for use in a photographic supplement to the contemplated later edition. All photographs will be acknowledged, copied at once, and promptly returned.

In the spring of 1833 deMarquis came to Kendall County, Illinois, looked at the land, liked it, and made a claim at Big Grove. He arranged for a man to build a cabin while he returned for his family. In the fall he and family of wife and 7 children arrived to find the cabin had not been built. He pitched a tent in which the family lived until he could cut down trees and build a log house wherein the family lived for two years. He then moved to Fox Township, 2 miles from Millington, where he built a larger log house in which the family lived for 18 years. In 1853 he built a large two-story brick house, the first such in the Township, where his children grew to maturity and where he spent the remainder of his life.

On Christmas Eve, 1873, deMarquis was driving home with his blind horse which made a misstep at a bridge approach. The buggy turned over but he was able to extricate himself and release the horse which he rode for the remainder of the way. After reaching his home, he lost consciousness not to be regained before he died on December 26th just beyond his 81st birthday. One of his sons who had seen much of the Civil War wrote: "I never saw a man die so peacefully."

His grave is in the Millington-Newark Cemetery beside that of his wife who predeceased him in 1863.

deMarquis Misner, a good manager and a prosperous farmer, was admired and respected by the entire community. His was a religious family, all were active members of the Millington Methodist Church.

Editor Jones is in possession of deMarquis' original land grant certificate, title #6170, recorded in Vol. 13, p. 20, and signed by President John Tyler. The certificate and a photograph, taken late in his life, of deMarquis Misner, may be reproduced in a second edition of this work.

Of large frame and great strength, and because of his many other qualities as well as for his talents, interests and activities, has become a legendary figure of Kendall County.

He was born at Lee's Creek, in Hamilton County, Ohio, and independently or with his father, Henry, came to Kendall County in 1833 or 1834 at 17 or 18. He was an ingenious artisan in iron and wood, including cabinet-making, and to meet the demands for services of the blacksmith he established a shop in Newark. There he prospered and in 1836 built, ruggedly of native stone, a much larger two-story shop, in reality a factory, in Millington, where it stands today as a symbol of early American industry. In the same year he built a house, the third in Millington, which was his home for more than 50 years.

To supply the needs of the community and those of the pioneers moving westward, his plant produced wagons, all sorts of farm equipment and the first wrought iron scouring plow available in Kendall County. His factory at its peak employed 60 men. He was the "John Deere" and the "Studebaker" of his day. It is still whispered about in Millington that he may have been swindled of the value of some of his patents.

After his wife's death and his subsequent health failure he went to make his home with his daughter in Chicago. He returned to Millington to unveil the D.A.R. monument to his father as a Revolutionary War soldier on June 14, 1897, and on one or two later occasions to attend annual meetings of the Misner Reunion Association. (See below).

The following is extracted from a newspaper article regarding his death:

DEATH OF ONE OF EARLIEST PIONEERS

"Fletcher Misner, who was born October 12, 1816, was the son of a Revolutionary War soldier whose monument placed by the D.A.R. at his grave in the Millington Cemetery in 1897. He came to Illinois in 1833 and experienced the vicissitudes of pioneer life in a new country. He lived and worked in Millington about 60 years. In 1837 he and Mary Jackson, daughter of another pioneer, were married by the Rev. John Sinclair. He is survived by both of their children.

"Mr. Misner was a kind-hearted hospitable man whose home for many years was headquarters for traveling itinerant preachers of early days. There the circuit rider ever found a cordial welcome. He was renowned for integrity and habits of industry. And being very skilled in his art had a large patronage from the surrounding country. He was much interested in and superintended the construction of the Millington Methodist Church and contributed toward its construction cost.

"Fletcher Misner was much attached to Kendall County and its people, having lived the best part of his life within its borders. It was with much reluctance that he left the community, due to his failing health. He died May 13, 1900, at the residence of his son, William, Anderson, Indiana, in whose home his last days were cheered with every comfort that hearts and willing hands could minister. Truly he deserved the recognition he so kindly there received.

"At the time of his death he was aged 83 years and 7 months. The body was brought to Millington for burial where his wife was interred. Of those early pioneers of this section of the State of Illinois who settled in Kendall County at the time when he came, very few indeed are living today. Funeral services were held in the church chapel, Millington, at 11:00 A. M. on May 15." (See Page A.)

At a meeting of the descendants of Henry Misner held at Millington, Illinois, on Flag Day, 1897, an association of family relatives was formed, to be known as the Misner Reunion Association. Officers were elected and a committee formed to plan the next annual meeting.

The company, following the meeting, a feast and a social period, repaired to the Millington-Newark Cemetery where to the memory of Henry Misner as a Revolutionary War soldier, born 137 years before, the Illinois Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution had erected a monument at his grave. The 99 attendants there that day to celebrate the event included the one surviving son of Henry Misner, Fletcher Misner, then aged 81, a real son of the Revolution, who unveiled the monument. Subsequently the Sons of the American Revolution placed its bronze plaque upon the monument. Of the 99 attending the meeting, 78 were descendants of Henry Misner, the others being wives and husbands of descendants.

Most of the descendants in attendance at the meeting and at the unveiling of the monument are designated: 2, 35, 37, 38, 44, 64, 65, 66, 106, 109, 111, 112, 113, 153, 227, 229, 239, 262, 270, 273, 277, 283, 296, 301, 303, 306, 315, 320, 331, 341, 363, 368, 369, 389, 391, 392, 408, 436, 437, 440, 442, 447, 456, 493, 499, 500, 514, 516, 518, 525, 529, 533, 538, 550, 551, 553, 554, 568, 580, 581, 583, 584, 589, 594, 613, 614, 616, 617.

Considerable Chicago and nearby newspaper publicity was accorded the event as was the case with later annual meetings held by the association. The 1898 and 1899 meetings, with attendance of 95 and 68, respectively, were both held at Morris, Illinois, the former (likely) at the home of (436) and the latter at the house of (440). The 1904 meeting was held in Ottawa at the home of (44). (See pages B & C.)

The Grundy County "Daily Gazette," issue of June 13, 1914, reported the meeting of that year at the home of (114) at Morris with attendance of nearly 100 and stated that the meetings had been held each year since their inception and that to that time 400 descendants of Henry Misner had been recorded. The 1915 meeting was apparently held at the home of (303) in Mazon, Ill.

Ownership of these walnut pieces has descended parallel with that of the chair, resting now with Editor Jones (37).

(339) With husband went to housekeeping in a log cabin built by Pioneer Harris, her husband's uncle, at Big Grove. It was at this cabin when the Indians struck in 1831 that her husband's grandfather, Mahlon Coombs, another Revolutionary War veteran, was at his behest left to his fate when his relatives fled for safety to the fort at Ottawa. (Recited in "Hick's History of Kendall Co.") Upon their return they were overjoyed to find the old man, whom the Indians regarded as too old and too ill to oppose them, quite unharmed. In this cabin, the first child, Miriam Adell (44) was born. In various locations the family later lived in Grundy Co., in Benton Co., Indiana, and in Vermillion Co., Ill.

(378) Enlisted in 1862; was in Kentucky, Chickamauga and Atlantic campaigns and in the March to the Sea. Was twice wounded. Made first sergeant of his company. Mustered out 6/6/1865. Returned to Kendall Co. home. Farmed till 1875 when he retired and went to Texas. Died at Abilene 1889.

These are recollections of Editor Jones (37) of life in a deeply religious household on a prosperous mid-Western farm during the last quarter of the 19th century.

"From the time I started to school until I finished, I spent all my vacations at the Van Tassel farm, would look forward to it all year. These experiences provided the most pleasant experiences of my childhood. I recall that 4:00 P. M. was the time to collect the eggs. I remember playing with the many cats which habited the barn. On Sunday we went to Milbrook to church, 2 miles. First there was Sunday School, then church, then an after meeting. The rest of the day we were all very quiet. When Uncle Henry thought it time for bed, he would bring out the big Bible, read a chapter after which we would all kneel in prayer - then to bed. It was very exciting when the threshers came. There was much cooking and baking; the neighbors exchanged work; it was like a big picnic. I would play by the hour in the big orchard and help in the flower garden. I remember the parlor and the stiff chairs. The parlor was opened only when someone came. These are happy memories. Long after I came to live in California I was able to visit Aunt Mary, a year before she died."

Death of John H. Misner.

"John H. Misner, a member of Company G, 104th Ill., Vols., during the civil war, died at his home in Kinsley, Kansas, on February 1st, aged 77 years. He is survived by his wife and two children. Mr. Misner was a grandson of Henry Misner, a soldier of the Revolutionary war."

Among those who married descendants of Henry Misner was Milly Haymond, wife of deMarquis Misner (253). Milly was the daughter of Calder Haymond, a prosperous planter, whose estate was near the city of Fairmount (then Va.) West Va. She was born on 2/8/1793, the granddaughter of John Haymond, from England and the first of the Haymonds in America. John's progeny comprises the well-known Haymonds of Virginia and W. Virginia, who are portrayed in:

- (1) "The Haymond Family," by Henry Haymond, Clarksburg, W. Va., 1903,
- (2) "Historical Sketches Relating to The Haymond Family," by T. L. Haymond, 1906, and
- (3) "Record of the Haymond Family" by Wm. C. Haymond.

as well as Calder,

Milly Haymond's uncle, Wm. Haymond, was in the Revolutionary War. She had two brothers, Thomas and Edward. The Haymonds were old-fashioned Wesleyan Methodists; her brother Thomas was a Methodist "circuit rider" in Va., Pa., and Maryland. In his "Journal," Bishop

Francis Asbury, the first bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church of America, records being a guest of Thomas at the parents' home on 7-13-1788.

The "Journal" of Thomas as a "circuit rider", still clearly legible, is now preserved at the Henry E. Huntington Library, San Marino, California.

In 1812 Calder Haymond sold his holdings and joined a son, John, who had pioneered in Ohio and Indiana. There, three years later, Milly Haymond and deMarquis Misner were married, 7/20/1815.

From some of her letters, still extant and clearly legible, Milly must have had for a girl of that day a very good education. Therein are found an excellent hand, a broad vocabulary and expressive literary construction. Her letters reflect a mother's concern for her children, some of whom were far from home, and other admirable qualities easily to indicate her to be a fine home-maker for all of which she was greatly beloved.

Milly was noted for her fine needlework, a talent inherited by her daughters. Two products of her sewing art are preserved today in the possession of Editor Jones (44). These are head caps of her make, one a mobcap, which she always wore - one type for day and another at night.

It is not difficult to understand the strong religious influence which she exerted upon her children, nor the strong influence which she, her husband and father-in-law exerted in the organization and construction of the Millington Methodist Church and the growth in membership of that church (which celebrated in 1958 its 125th anniversary) during the span of their lifetime.

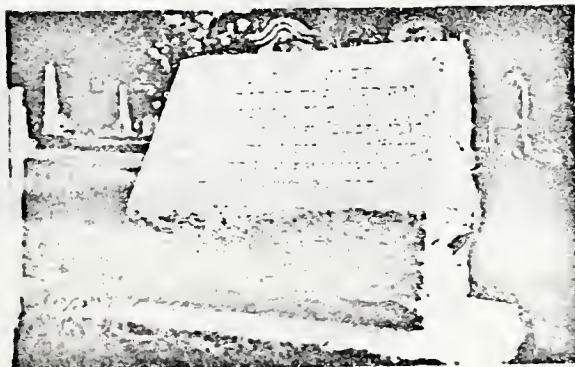

Milly died 1/10/1862 and is buried in the Millington-Newark Cemetery, with so many of her relatives.

The wives and mothers of these early generations were far more than merely plain, brave women. They were pioneer partners in life and work when, in contrast with our present mechanized era, most of each day was spent in strenuous labor.
